Our aims and objectives

BEECHAC Inc is an Australian association incorporated in NSW and formed in May 2008 by concerned families to increase support, care and communication for members involved with the BEECHAC conditions.

We aim to:

1. provide a supportive Australian community for people with Bladder Exstrophy, Epispadias, Cloacal Exstrophy and Hypospadias and their family and friends
2. collaborate with health care professionals to improve the care & treatment for our members
3. generate public awareness of the BEECHAC conditions, including in educational & employment settings

Our objectives are to provide:

A website with regular updates and information about frequently asked questions, latest techniques and procedures, resource information, chat lines, & links to similar organizations in Australia & overseas

A quarterly newsletter via the website & also available in hard copy to be posted with updates related to each state & territory

Conferences within Australia and support for members to attend conferences overseas

Emotional and financial support for members to travel for operations, consultations and procedures as well as to conferences and for fun get-togethers

Research in collaboration with universities and research institutions about the BEECHAC conditions & new developments in surgery

We advocate for:

- Public awareness of the BEECHAC conditions
- Support not just for medical procedures but also for social, psychological and sexual needs
- A team approach in medicine
- Acknowledgement that the person with the disability must be seen as a whole-of-life patient
- Standards in medicine that provide a single specialist for life rather than a paediatrician or paediatric urologist in childhood then a urologist in adulthood who may not have expertise in this area
- Sharing of medical knowledge among physicians nationally and internationally
- Resources to ensure quality care
- A treatment regime for Australians that doesn't rely on doctors overseas to perform necessary operations

The BEECHAC conditions are all congenital birth defects that can, to a lesser or greater extent, affect:

- the bladder
- the urethra
- the genitals
- and the pelvis

Children often undergo numerous repair operations to rectify these conditions and to minimize the risks of urinary tract and kidney infection.
